

Pastoral Care at Flint High School

Every Child Matters

To understand students we need to know them. Pastoral care means listening, supporting and encouraging young people in many different ways. A student's wellbeing is at the core of successful learning.

People make pastoral care work at Flint High School

- Every student has a form tutor
- All staff are trained to make sure that students are safe, healthy and happy
- Each year group has a Learning Manager who is responsible for student care and academic success
- The school has an Assistant Headteacher whose role is to make sure that the pastoral system works for all students
- The Headteacher, Mrs McClean and the Deputy Designate, Miss Crich, are also there if you need some help with a pastoral matter
- Mrs Teasdale-Jones runs our Personal Social Health Education programme
- Mrs Chatfield and her team make sure that students access behaviour management or emotional support if things go wrong at home or at school.

We believe that all students have a person they can turn to if they need extra support. Pastoral care can be about handing out the tissues, lending a sympathetic ear or providing a stiff talking to if a student is not reaching his/her potential.

Our message to parents is- let us know

If things at home are difficult and your child needs some support tell us so that we can respond in the right way. If there is a problem in school please talk to us so that we can put things right.
